About Me

For five years, I've helped startups, companies, and individuals bring their app ideas to life - making sure every project is robust, secure, and built to last. I care about clean code and thoughtful architecture, and I genuinely enjoy tackling tough problems with fresh ideas. Each new project is a chance for me to learn, improve, and create something that developers will love building and users will love using. I'm always looking for the next challenge.

Experience
